Hiding and waiting, C Company, 2nd Battalion, 35th Infantry lay in ambush for unsuspecting Viet Cong. This was the mission—go out, set ambushes and let "Charlie" come to you then destroy him.

Before dawn C Company broke camp and departed on the operation. They had traveled 2,500 meters when the first light contact was made. The 1st platoon encountered an estimated group of five Viet Cong and was receiving automatic weapons fire from a hedgerow to their right flank. Immediately, the platoon laid down a base of fire and assaulted the enemy.

This engagement not only killed two VC but also set the (continued on page 2) commander, company First Lieutenant Ramon T. Pulliam, assigned sectors of responsibility to his plateons then the subordinates made their detailed plans. Squad-size ambushes were positioned along possible enemy avenues of proach during both day night.

Camouflage and disclipine, the basics of guerrilla warfare, were employed by the infantrymen to surprise the VC. Patience was the keynote as the ambushes lay waiting.

"Charlie" Company who wears ace of spades embroidered on their helmet covers, really drew a royal flush this time. There were twelve attempts by the VC to infiltrate the area but they were all caught by the well concealed ambushes. The 60 warfare hours of guerrilla resulted in 32 Viet Cong killed and not a single friendly cas-

In "Charlie" Company's latest action, heavy contact was made with an entrenched enemy force. Realizing that his platoon would suffer nany casual-ties in the open area they were in, SSG Johnson, in a magnifi-cent display of leadership by example, kept his men maneuvering against the enemy.

He repeatedly exposed himself to fire while marking enemy*s positions with his weapon. Then as his platoon gained fire superiority, SSG Johnson personally led his men into the midst of the enemy and destroyed them.

The Australian tourist industry has begun preparations to handle the "dollar invasion" by U.S. servicenen, which is expected to raise the country's annual tourist income by as much as 50 per cent, and with a resounding roar the word has gone out, "The Yanks are coming."

For many members of the 3rd Brigade the war is something other than sloshing through rice paddies, climbing hills and fighting a tenacious, entrenched enemy. Some are fighting another kind of war-a war to open the schools and educate the people of Duc Pho.

Schools had been closed for April that Free World control of the area has been sufficient to start planning for the re-opening of schools.

While construction of three school houses is under way for the coming year, temporary classrooms have been set up to handle the summer courses in English.

The classes are taught by 2nd Lieutenant Charles T. Easterly and Captain Carroll P. Osgood.

100 PER CENT RE-UP FOR JUNE

One of the fighting-est units in Vietnam, the "Bronco" Brigade, has also proven to be one of the most popular with its soldiers as 100 per cent of those eligible re-enlisted during the month of June. This is a mark that may be equalled, but can never be topped by any other unit in the U.S. Army.

Long proud of its re-enlistment record, the 3rd Brigade reached the top in June, but figures for the rest of the year have been nearly as impressive.

Throughout 1967, every career soldier Digible in the Brigade has "Re-Upped" against a DA goal of 80 per cent. For first term RA's, DA shoots for a 33 per cent figure but the "Broncos" have had 32 out of 45, or 71 per cent re-enlist.

For the AUS's, about 16 per cent, or more than double the DA goal have extended their Army careers, reaching an amazing 8 out of 8 during June.

As more and more seasoned troops stay to fight the war in Vietnam, the 3rd Brigade can expect to maintain its fine record on the battle field and live up to its motto, "None Better."
